a small town in a distant land,
a lowly stable birth.
but from that night,
there came a light,
that shone throughout the earth.

that one pure light then grew and spread,
and reached out through that land.
from that one light,
that land shone bright,
ignited by Your hand.

through years since then, dark empires tried,
to use their earthly might.
to kill the Word
the world had heard,
but none could quench the light.
and now the whole world sees the light,
its blazing, brilliant glow,
that gift of love,
shines from above,
transforming lives below.

Chorus (twice at the end)

ignite!...
Your light...
like sunrise after night!

blaze bright!...
with all-consuming light!

then darkness tried to kill the light,
with nails and cross of wood.
but three days on,
once more it shone,
a blazing power for good.

that light ignited thousands,
those thousands, millions more.
and from that light,
all earth blazed bright,
as never seen before.

when life's dark clouds drift through our world,
and all seems black as night,
we know that You,
shine on us too,
to fill our world with light.

ignite in us Your passion,
ignite in us Your light,
ignite and blaze,
with love and praise,
ignite our world tonight.
